

Facilitator training

A personal development programme about sex and relationships for young people

“There are too many cases that I learn about where actually we could have intervened sooner” Karen Bradley, Minister for Preventing Abuse and Exploitation.

About this training

This two-day facilitator training is for professionals wanting to use Outside the Box with small groups of young people aged 11+ years as an intervention to prevent sexual exploitation.

Outside the Box enables discussion about a wide range of interconnected personal and relationship issues including consent, identity, anatomy, sexual health and services, gender, sexual orientation, relationships and sexual exploitation.

‘I thought the training was wonderful, and now feel more confident in tackling a wide variety of issues’

Training outcomes:

- Confidence and skills to facilitate Outside the Box effectively and safely with young people.
- Knowledge relating to the sex and relationships education content of Outside the Box.
- Practice delivering activities from Outside the Box.
- Identification of practical strategies for delivering Outside the Box in a relevant setting, including safeguarding considerations.
